When will I be billed and how?

1. PROGRAM FEE: The program fee is billed to the student's MSU account. The program fee typically contains fixed costs (such as pre-departure orientation, group transportation, program leader expenses, etc.); lodging and varying numbers of meals; field trips/social activities; and accident and sickness insurance. For some programs (such as partner programs where students directly enroll in classes at a host university) the program fee will only include accident and sickness insurance because costs are paid directly to the host institution. Students will receive the program fee bill according to university billing cycles (typically July for Academic Year & Fall Semester programs, November for Winter Break, Spring Break and Spring Semester programs and April for Summer programs.)

- A. APPLICATION FEE: A $100 application fee is required for all programs and is billed to the student's MSU account upon submission of an application. The application fee is applied to the program fee and is non-refundable once a student accepts admission into the program.
- B. CONFIRMATION DEPOSIT: Upon acceptance to a program, students are required to log back into their student portal and complete the Decision Form. A non-refundable and non-transferable $200 confirmation deposit will be billed to the student's MSU account. This will be applied to the program fee.

Host Institution tuition is included in the program fee.

2. ESTIMATED ADDITIONAL (OUT-OF-POCKET) EXPENSES: These items include costs not billed through the program fee. These costs are paid out-of-pocket by the student both pre-departure (e.g., passport, flight) and on-site (e.g., meals, travel). These amounts are prepared on the basis of the best available information and are used by the Office of Financial Aid in establishing financial aid allocations to eligible students. The estimates can be used by non-aided students as guidelines for planning personal budgets and should be considered as fully adequate to cover all normal expenses and not as bare minimums.

When evaluating the total cost of an education abroad program, students should look at the program fee items and additional items. Costs can be dramatically affected by individual budgetary habits and the fluctuations of currency exchange rates against the US dollar. All students should approach the prospect of living abroad with maturity and a sense of financial responsibility. Learn more about funding opportunities.
